

Today
Quite an Earthquake
Don't Sacrifice Your Stocks
Russia Means It
A Million-Year Machine
By Arthur Brisbane

ANOTHER FINANCIAL EARTHQUAKE, and rather severe. Wall Street can sympathize with the Hawaiian Islands, which they recently had an earthquake, within two hours. The violent drop in stock values has nothing to do with the value of properties represented. One or two stocks, for instance, that have dropped in value upward of $100 a share will in a few years sell at a price 150 above the highest price ever reached this far.

The trouble is not with American values, but with 20,000,000 gambles, eight-tenths of all of them, showing their stocks on the market. A stampede is not as dangerous as a gambling stampede. Some sacrifice stocks because they must, unable to meet margin calls.

Those that have bought intelligently, and not on a "follow the leader" plan, should be able, make the necessary sacrifice and hold on. They will be glad they did so.

At this moment, while the bewildered sheep join in the stampede and sacrifice their wool, wise men are picking up what they drop.

Advice isn't of much value in an earthquake. And, unfortunately, it is too late to say "Don't gamble." The advice for today is: "Don't get panic-stricken and throw good property away if you can keep it."

The amusing person at this season is the man who, for some strange reason, has not lost any money in Wall Street. He has a right to tell you in the manner of one of those who have done something remarkable in a crisis.

Russia's recent accusations of men accused of conspiring against the government now number 65. They include two priests and their assistants and two Jewish diamond merchants, Kleiner and Taitz, convicted of smuggling diamonds out of Russia.

In Russia it is necessary to live in government. The ideas of the Russian government.

Four Russians that flew from Moscow to Seattle, where they were well entertained, left yesterday from Chicago to Dearborn to eat and talk with Henry Ford and Edsel Ford.

Russia is grateful to Henry Ford, who has sent engineers to show Russia how to build factories and get production, and was among the first shipbuilders in Russia, knowing they would be paid for. They were paid for.

General Electric, General Swanwick, General D. Young, chairman, early gave the Russians a line of credit even higher than the Henry Ford line. All of which is intelligent business.

New York's hospitals own $1,000,000 worth of radium, 16 grams, which wouldn't occupy much space on the top of your finger.

That is a good investment, $1,000,000 worth of radium, which men wear out too fast. They wear out with the radium, working, sending out electrons from the millions of atoms at frightful velocity, penetrating and destroying germs of disease, deadly to men, without proper precaution.

A million years will pass. New York will disappear, oceans and continents will change their places. And the tiny particles of radium will still be in the air.

In Paris, where American foots respond their study French efficiency, those that seek in place of foots have invented something new. Finger nails are to be dyed emerald green, not fashionable, and other nails will be dyed sapphire blue. The colors will be in keeping with the painted faces of some modern women.

Solemn celebration in Rome of the anniversary of Mussolini's march on the Eternal City. It is really a Mussolini celebration, a one-man achievement. Mussolini tells his enthusiastic followers: "Italy is implacable, young and strong, as he wishes it to be."

The character of the nation has been changed there is no doubt. It must be remembered also that the right to express dissatisfaction has been abolished. Mussolini's extraordinary genius has set on the safety valve for seven years. Something happens, usually when you sit on the safety valve for seven years, and the steam comes out. Safety valve exceptions are rare. Some day he must pass.

2 MORE DEATHS DESPITE AUTO CAMPAIGN

Two more auto deaths mentioned in the campaign to make the highways safe were today full news.

State police are aiding authorities at Springfield in the search for a driver who struck down two boys, killing one, and fled, leaving his victims unconscious in the street.

The dead boy is Frank Wagner, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wagner of Wells St. Green field.

His death, which is reported in a critical condition with internal injuries and a fractured leg, is the second in a week.

DEATH AT SPRINGFIELD

At Springfield, Richard Doyle, 29, received a fractured skull while in the way to work when struck by a car operated by Charles Snyder of Agency. He died in Springfield Hospital.

Since given on Sunday State police have charged more than 200 motorists in connection with the safety drive to enforce regulations, according to the report of Capt. Charles F. Reardon, commander of the force.

In all cases violations of the law were reported, of which 200 were reported in a court yesterday.

Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson issued instructions to the department to prosecute vigorously all violators of the automobile law and at the same time general and are announced the imposing of punishment duty on two patrolmen who were found guilty of failing to prosecute immediately a brand-new driver arrested in the South End.

The patrolmen sentenced to 210 hours punishment were William H. Hurd of the West Roxbury station and Harry E. Beatty of the East Boston station.

CHARGES TRUCK DRIVERS

Employment of helpers on trucks as a means of reducing the number of punishable fatalities was urged by Registrar of Motor Vehicles George A. Parker in speaking at the meeting of the Massachusetts Motor Truck Club at Friend Brothers' bean factory in Malden.

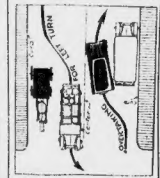

Auto Victim to Recover

Lowell, Oct. 28, although suffering from lacerations of the brain and four distinct skull fractures, surgeons at a local hospital said that Peter Kishner, 40, would recover without an operation.

McClintock Outlines New Traffic Rules

Slow Traffic Must Use Right Lane to Facilitate Passing

SECTION 1 (Rule A)—Up on all highways, except one-way streets, the driver of a vehicle shall drive the same upon the right half of the highway and shall drive a truck, bus, horse-drawn or slow moving vehicle as closely as practically to the right edge of the curb of such highway, except when overtaking and passing another vehicle, or when placing a vehicle in a position to make a left turn.

DR. MILLER MCCLINTOCK, Traffic Expert, Department of Public Works.

This rule has always been followed by courteous and sensible drivers. The only thing new about it is that "slow moving" vehicles are specified.

The reason for such specification is to eliminate the danger of cars in the rear of the slow-moving vehicle swinging over in front of traffic coming from the opposite direction.

On the highway it is noticeable that trucks owned by firms operating in the city follow this rule closely. They are generally well disciplined groups who receive regular instruction on courteous and sensible driving.

Dr. McClintock will recommend that on the new highway rules in the volume of the Boston Evening American.

A car needs a driver. Have you a driver for your car? Tell about it and give location to the Boston Evening American. That's the way to find it.

For the guidance of Massachusetts motorists who are confronted with 31 new rules of the highway, Dr. Miller McClintock, traffic expert for the State department of public works, will discuss each of the new rules from day to day in the columns of the Boston Evening American.

Memorizing the new rules will not be difficult, Dr. McClintock says, if the motorists will bear in mind that in every instance they are followed upon common sense driving and simply in order that they be followed by safe and sane drivers throughout the country.

In adopting the new highway rules the department of public works is merely writing into law what is the safe, practical way to operate motor vehicles," said Dr. McClintock.

"Sensible drivers have been following these rules for years. There is nothing complicated about them and it is our hope that by giving them sufficient publicity the automobile drivers of Massachusetts may be acquainted with the rules readily and thus cooperate with the authorities in reducing the number of accidents throughout the State."

"I am thankful to the Boston Evening American for that opportunity to discuss in detail each of the new rules. By this method the work of the department in broadening the new regulations and the reasons for their adoption is greatly facilitated."

Miss Elizabeth Hobbs Makes Her Debut at Country Club Luncheon; Provisional Junior Leaguers Hear Lecture

INVITATIONS WERE RECEIVED today to the marriage of Miss Nancy Thayer and Laurence Batchelder at 4 o'clock on Friday, November 22. Miss Thayer is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hobbs, Thayer of Dudley at Brookline, and formerly of Stearns rd. After being graduated from the May school, she attended South College, making her debut here in the Christmas holidays in 1917, during which year she was elected to membership in the Junior League.

Attractive in a purple crepe de chine a la nouvelle mode, a matching felt hat and black shoes. The hostess was seated in a smart chiffon velvet of black and orange. The ten tables had for their floral decorations small yellow chrysanthemums combined with blue flowers. Miss Elizabeth Hobbs and Miss Sylvia French came up from New Bedford to attend this party. Miss Hobbs is one of those holding provisional membership in the Junior League.

THE PROVISIONAL JUNIOR LEAGUE members attended another one of the lectures in their course this afternoon at 2:30 when they heard Miss Jane McCord, who is the head of Ellis Memorial, speak on "The Call of the Neighborhood." After the interesting talk the girls divided into groups and went down to Littleton, Fenelon House and Elizabeth Peabody House to better comprehend the work of these splendid institutions. The remainder of the course is as follows:

Friday, November 1. "The Government's Responsibility in Public Welfare," speaker, Dr. George H. Bigelow, commissioner of public health; Tuesday, November 5. "The Girl Scout," speaker, Mrs. Laurence Shaw, field trip to Boston civilization school; Friday, November 8. "The Y. W. C. A.," speaker to be announced; Tuesday, November 12, general summary, speaker, Mrs. Eva Whiting White, who is the head of the Elizabeth Peabody House; Friday, November 15, general discussion; Tuesday, November 19, written examination on the whole.

At the end of this course members are supposed to have an idea of the social organization of the city in which they live. The only members exempt from taking this course are those attending college or living out of town. Those taking the course who do not pass cannot become active members of the league until they take it over again with greater success.

SMOKE PERIL INCREASING, WOMAN TOLD

Declaring that the smoke peril in Greater Boston is getting worse, Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, noted citizen, criticized the State commission on smoke abatement in an address before the Cambridge League of Women Voters.

He recommended that the first lesson in the smoke abatement act now before the Massachusetts legislature should be postponed pending a more detailed study of the situation.

"In certain sections of Greater Boston," said Dr. Briggs, "one can feel the crush of smoke under his feet as one walks across the floor of a room after the windows have been left open. This is especially true on Beacon Hill and in South Boston, he said. One has only to look at the Charles River, Boston Common and the Public Garden 24 hours after a smoke storm to see the condition of some, and to see the color of the buildings which receive sandblasting and in some places, since the burning of oil as a fuel came in, even staining with acids is necessary.

Dr. Briggs called the State House as a glaring example of the damage smoke can do. He remarked that the smoke abatement commission has brought only three cases into court in the 12 years of its existence, and said: "Would it not be better to abolish the law entirely and have an advisory commission only— which this present commission seems to have become?"

W. A. Edson, smoke inspector of the State department of public utilities, also spoke to the women. He said in a year that each complaint coming to the State House was investigated and said there have been no habitual violators of the smoke law in the past year.

It was announced that the Massachusetts League of Women Voters will meet Thursday and decide whether to endorse or oppose the bill before the Legislature on smoke abatement.

KILLS HIS BABY: GETS 10 YEARS

Nashua, N. H., Oct. 26 (A.P.)—Clark, 22, of Norfolk, was sentenced to ten years in State Prison for the second degree murder of his wife, Mary, on Oct. 26. Clark originally charged with first degree murder, but later pleaded guilty to the second degree.

A charge of accessory before the fact against Clark was dropped.

The next day a nurse visited the Clark and inquired about the baby, to be told that it had been taken to the home of a friend in Providence. The police investigated and on learning the truth, on a charge of first degree murder, a pregnant Clark.

MARIONNE by Gladys Johnson

Romance in Which Love Scores Triumph

From Dale Van Kley's story, starring Marion Davies in her first all-singing, all-acting motion picture, produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

CHAPTER II.
HEARTBREAK, in Marion's gaze as it flashed to Stagg's smothered face—turned again to Andre, who stood tense and white, a faint smile stamped on his lips.

A moment she hesitated, side her face trembled in the balance, then, with a little broken cry she gathered Andre into her arms, drawing his face down, covering it with kisses of tender pity. For Marianne, all the others had vanished. She stood alone with her tragic eyes.

Stagg stepped back, his face white as death.

Stagg's brow was puckered like a monkey's as he turned to the watching soldiers.

"Foggy—let's beat it! I won't get hurt!"

The whisper reached Andre and he lifted his face from the bright air of the girl.

"Stagg, I beg . . . do not let us convert your pleasure. It is to come home to me and to Stagg."

He got to go? Stagg spoke for the first time, and his tone was with "You . . . you get a right to see Marianne alone."

At that, he saw a quiver go through her but she did not lift her head from Andre's breast.

Face wooden, walking mechanically, Stagg followed the others out of the house.

A soldier who had missed the meaning, understanding the scene, rushed "Go—that follows the reality of the girl Stagg thought he was a fellow of. That rich Stagg wheeled with a curse, but Stagg's hand on his shoulder while he ended at the blunderer.

"Go—go chase yourself down to the butcher shop and buy yourself one bean, you damn fool!" He walked a way apart with Stagg.

"Go . . . said Stagg. His hand gripped the other man's shoulder as he said, "Go . . . Stagg . . . Go . . ."

He saw Stagg's breast rise on a long slow breath. Saw the young fellow's eyes go out to where the willows stood motionless against the grey-blue sky of France.

"That's that!" said Stagg in a tight voice. "That's that!"

He walked away alone in the sunlight. Walked down to the pond, where the sun filtered through the willows and printed a moving picture on the lower bank.

Memory came to torture him. He had had Stagg's hand on his shoulder yesterday. Then he had been so confident, so gaily trusting. A wild happiness shook through him. He clenched his fists. Oh, God, he had been so sure. His own confidence swept crushed back to torment him. Do you think I let any other fellow have you?

He and his eyes saw Stagg's hand. He had said he would fight for her. But how could he fight a blind man? For a moment he lost himself in a mad, half-illuminated state of life. His love and Marianne's. Andre's sightless assertion on the bloody altar of war. And why?

The mood passed. Gave way to a terrible depression. No, no means of hope in his soul. Knowing Marianne, knowing her tender joy for all, and his blindness, he could not hope.

He sat down on the grassy road of a willow and buried his face in his hands.

"Oh, God!" his voice was very tired. "Oh, God!"

"Bull!" there in the kitchen when the soft shuffle of footstep growing fainter as they moved away across the yard. Even the children had been carried away by the soldiers, so that even the golden downiness of afternoon was a sunny window pane.

"No!" Stagg's voice was sharp with protest. "You must not say that! You are not a failure! You are a hero!"

She pulled his face down, kissed his cheek lids.

WEATHER DUE TO LESSEN DANGER

Forest Fires Are Dying Out; Bazeley Will Not Urge Governor to Act

Christmas news for hunters of upland game today emanated from the office of Commissioner of Conservation William A. Bazeley at the State House.

The commissioner, advised by the weather of a heavy rain forecast for tomorrow and Thursday, with probable snow in the western part of the state, feels confident that it will not be necessary to close the woods because of a fire hazard.

Before getting the weather forecast, the commissioner had announced he was ready to recommend to the governor and council at the regular meeting tomorrow that the woods be closed.

He feels that this action will be necessary now in view of the fact that most of the fires are of a fire hazard.

OF Trends of the Day BOSTON Leaders' Views MARKETS

WALL STREET ALWAYS FLIES TO EXTREMES

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Wall Street today was flying to extremes, with the extreme of optimism and demoralization yesterday, when many stocks fell below even last Thursday's levels.

Not far from ten million shares were eagerly thrown on the market regardless of the price level.

The famous big six members of the Morgan & Co. holding portfolio in the afternoon to look over the wreckage and, as one of them remarked to me, "to find out if any real trouble is being done."

This same influential banker seemed to have given the public the idea, which some newspapers seem to have done, that the banks intend to peg the stock market.

We never had any such intention, I believe. The banks are added with a smile, "as if we had."

Albert H. Wiggin, the heavy-weight head of the Chase Bank, a second largest in the country, who carefully guards his words, said he was not looking for a revival of the speculation of the day of the 1920s.

He would like to see the market in a state of equilibrium, with the number of shares in circulation at a level that would be sufficient to support the price level.

Requirements for Margin Buying Reduced

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—F. R. Ketch & Co. announce that they have reduced the margin requirements on listed stocks to 25 per cent, as long as the prices remain at present levels.

STANDARD TO CUT STORED OIL VOLUME

Pontiac, Mich., Oct. 29.—The Standard Oil Co. has announced that it will cut its stored oil volume by 25 per cent, as long as the prices remain at present levels.

Congress Must Save Radio Industry From Monopoly's Greedy Grip

REPEAL of the anti-monopoly provisions of the Radio Act of 1927 would be a downright nullification of the unmistakably plain intent of the Congress which wrote Section 17 into that law to protect radio communication from monopoly.

And those financial interests which have organized a countervailing effort to repeal Section 17 of the Radio Act are attempting to thwart the will of Congress, sacrifice the public interest and stifle the development of radio as an active competitor of the cable in communication with foreign countries.

It was the fear of some such attempt by special interests that caused the Congress to write into the Radio Act its anti-monopoly provisions.

And the purpose of these was clearly defined by Congressman White of Maine when the Radio Act was before the House. He collaborated with Senator Dill, of Washington, in the framing of that legislation, and here is what Congressman White said at that time concerning the intent of Congress:

"This bill contains a prohibition against radio companies acquiring ownership or control of wire companies, or of wire companies acquiring control of radio companies engaged in foreign communication, if the purpose or effect thereof is to stifle competition between these two means of communication. We hope by this provision to preserve competitive conditions between cable and radio in inter-oceanic communications."

SOME of the legislators were in favor of more rigid safeguards against monopoly. But it was pointed out that Congress was dealing with a new means of communication which was fighting to develop its usefulness in a field in which telephones, telegraphs and cables were already strongly entrenched.

And rather than jeopardize the further development of radio, Congress accepted the assurance of the framers of the Radio Act that the anti-monopoly provisions of the general law and of Section 17 provided all the safeguards for the development of radio as an active competitor of the cables that public safety required.

Experience has vindicated the action which Congress took at that time. For it is solely because Section 17 is serving the purpose for which its anti-monopoly provisions were written into the law that powerful financial interests are now scheming to bring about its repeal.

Instead of encouraging the development of radio as a competitor in foreign communication, they would have the public believe that radio is a supplement to the cables rather than as a competitor, and that radio should be merged with and subordinated to the cables. This contention flies in the face of all the facts of record here and elsewhere.

And it contradicts the statements made less than two years ago by some of the financial interests which are now working for the repeal of Section 17.

ALL the evidence before the Radio Commission goes to show that whenever and wherever there has been direct competition between wireless communication and wire communication the result has been a reduction of rates. This reduction was made first by the wireless companies and was thereafter met by the wire companies. And in each case the public was the gainer.

All the anti-monopoly provisions of the Radio Act of 1927 must be embodied in the Couzens bill to create a Federal commission on power and communications if that commission is to have the power to prevent monopoly from seizing the control of the air, stifling the development of radio, and becoming an absolute dictator of the whole field of communications.

Canada is already alarmed by the threat of such conditions. A Canadian commission which has been studying radio conditions in Canada has already recommended that the Government build, maintain and operate all radio stations within the Dominion.

AND SENATOR DILL DID NOT EXAGGERATE WHEN HE WARNED THE SENATE RECENTLY THAT UNLESS THE RADIO COMMISSION OR ITS SUCCESSOR CONTROLS THE AIR AND PROTECTS RADIO FROM THE GRIEDED GRIP OF MONOPOLY, PUBLIC SENTIMENT WILL "DRIVE CONGRESS TO PUT ALL RADIO UNDER CONTROL OF THE GOVERNMENT."

Home Rule and Boston Schoolhouses

MANY proponents of "Home Rule" for Boston objected to the bill abolishing the Boston Schoolhouse Commission as it was originally filed in the Legislature.

In its original form, the bill would have created three unpaid commissioners of school buildings, one each to be appointed by the Mayor, the School Committee and the Governor.

As it was enacted, however, and as it will appear in referendum form on the ballot next Tuesday, the power of gubernatorial appointment is withdrawn except upon failure of the Mayor's and School Committee's appointees to agree upon the third commissioner within 30 days.

The Boston Evening American—always favoring "Home Rule"—supported the original draft, believing the condition of Boston's schoolhouses to be an issue beyond the differences that may arise between State and municipal governments.

In its referendum form, it is difficult to see how the most partisan of "Home Rule" adherents can object to the act. Under the 30-day provision, appointment by the Governor is, of course, only a remote possibility.

Surely, the deficiencies of the present system of schoolhouse construction, alteration and repair have been made obvious by the Survey Committee of the Boston Schools, the Boston Finance Commission and the Legislative Committee on Cities.

IF YOU WOULD SAFEGUARD THE FUTURE OF BOSTON'S SCHOOL SYSTEM, VOTE "YES" ON THE SCHOOLHOUSE REFERENDUM NEXT TUESDAY.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

WE sympathize with the lady who, after spending herself after listening to the broadcasting of a ball game of poetry.

There is nothing sadder than poetry on a short wave length.

We weep when Graham McCracken announces that the next musical of Broadway will be "The Girl Who Came to Stay."

And, off to the left, we hear, we listen to Charles Clark grabbing the last drink concession from Rudyard Kipling.

The public singers are beautiful if moans, groans and inter-related buzzes are harmony.

The dream of Eugene Aram is another fine night cap. There is nothing sadder than the Ancient Mariner with Edgar Allan Poe as a character.

Why not write Madame Tenebris was works for sound.

The sensitive lady took poison after a glossy poet laureate had quilled 16 verses of bad news into the loud speaker.

She figured she might as well swallow poison as take it through the ear.

If there can't get to Paul Whiteman and his twin brother of orchestral harmonies, then we don't want soldiers by an established hypocrite who buys functional hook-up for his symptoms.

We got a load of Al Johnson getting "Sunny Boy" the other night. It's a lousy dish. But Al has the faculty of giving you those big snorts.

And when Al starts in two air-track mass-memory over the air, you know that no morose lady is going to swallow a carboy of advice like.

We have plenty of favorites on the air. Elmerton is one form of entertainment that should be exposed to the damp, night atmosphere.

It starts out all right, but evaporates in transit and curdles in the loud speaker.

If that poet deliberately recited a poem to explain that it is a guilty of poetry in the first degree. But a jury of radio fans would figure that anybody who listened would be guilty of poetry in the first degree.

The old original meaning, the proper meaning of "well" was a compartment, an enclosure. And Nothing could be further from the reality. The proper word should be "conquer" (little h's) and not cell at all.

The manner seems very easily and naturally. Molecules in their turn are digested, absorbed and handed over to the next cell.

It is in the nature of the thing that the cell is a unit of life, and the cell is a unit of life.

Living cells, and in the other words of a plant, the cell walls are inhabited by pieces of a slimy gelatinous substance called protoplasm, and it is in this protoplasm, and not in their principle, that the word cell is now applied. It is the protoplasm and not its garment which makes the cell.

In animal tissues we find the cell without the box.

Most cells, but not all of them, are microscopic. Some of the larger cells are called giant cells, and some of the smaller cells are called microcells.

Cells of elder pulp, for example, are called giant cells, and cells of elder pulp are called microcells.

Cells of elder pulp are called giant cells, and cells of elder pulp are called microcells.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

FAMOUSNESS is the virtuous inspiration, which prompts a man to "conquer the whole truth" in a woman—before anybody else beats him in it.

Men never believe in miracles; but most of them seem to expect an Aphrodite to arise from the deeps.

A blond is a man who can look his wife in the eye, at breakfast, and say: "I'm a little bit of a blond."

It takes a clever man to make an effective out of a Summer love-affair; but a real artist is the one who knows how to make the cell of a Summer love-affair.

New York Year by Day

By O. O. MINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 29—Sunday on Grand St. is fairly interesting in the morning life of the lower East Side. The thoroughfare is the "Chinatown" and a bubbling fountain of activity. One, starting from the rest of the city, New York indulges a substantial calm.

Shops are wide open and a hundred and one various sales are under way. The gutters are noisy with body-guards and street hawks. Bargain hunters are confined to lawn dwellers. Smart auto from uptown detour shoppers from Park ave. to Grand St.

It is said Grand St. offers many bargains in dresses and millinery that cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Style cops roam through the fashionable attires in de luxe centers northward and several days later their "discoveries" are duplicated in Grand St. windows.

The merchants like to bargain. They have little interest in the customer who does not haggle. The first price is a "feeler." And after this comes the opera bottle huffer, the dandy, the aristocrat, the ingenious and the delicious features of despair that characterize a sale.

The pool hall is still the favorite haunt of youthful Grand St. aborigine of them in flaming youth, wet-walled casks and rakish-up dipped hats are seen entering out front to wink or skylark with the night watchman.

Grand St. girls have much of the first of Broadway's style. They are dressed in the latest, but not more than a slat in the movies and a soda affords them the "working girls" who are at home in the city.

Grand St. has turned out many illustrious citizens and a host of the yearly upstart dinner of the first of Broadway's style.

Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

THIS is my dream, and nothing more. A starry by the ocean shore. Where hour by hour the breakers

Where all the day and all the night. The foam-floes fling their blon-

That is my dream, and my delight. In time of tempest or of peace. The sea alone can bring release. The sea alone can bring release.
